REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding independent claims 1, 6, 11, 13 and 19, among the cited prior art, the following is the closest prior art relevant to the claimed invention:

a.) U.S. Patent Number 6,597,918 B1: Apparatus and Method for Transmitting/Receiving Long Messages in Digital Portable Terminal

b.) U.S. Patent Number 6,597,918 B1: Random Access Communications Channel for Data Services

The claimed invention is aimed at a transmission method using a short message service (SMS) that can successively transmit messages that a mobile terminal user intends to transmit, wherein if the message to be transmitted exceeds a predetermined length, identifiers representing a boundary of each predetermined unit of the message and an identifier representing that the message is divided and transmitted are inserted into the units of the message, and the message is divided and transmitted according to the inserted identifiers.

In order to remedy the transmission of over exceeded limit messages (SMS), the Applicant has cited the following limitations:

A short message transmitting method in a communication system comprising:

- checking a number of characters of an input text message;
  - inserting connection information representing a boundary of the text message and identification information for informing that the text message is divided whenever the checked number of characters exceeds a predetermined number;
  - dividing the input text message according to the inserted connection information;
- and

- transmitting the divided text messages,
- wherein the connection information comprises first connection information for informing there is a respective divided text message connected to a rear of the first connection information, and second connection information for informing there is the respective divided text message connected to a front of the second connection information, the first connection information also for informing a connection of the respective divided text message with a further one of divided text message, wherein for a first divided text message among the divided text messages, the connection information is inserted into only an end portion of the first divided text message, the end portion being an end to be connected to the next divided text message.

Kim discloses a short message transmitting method in a communication system comprising:

- inserting connection SMS header which includes a separate long message ID, which reads on claimed "message information representing a boundary" indicating that the transmitted message is a part of a given long of the text message and identification information for informing that the text message is divided whenever the checked number, in step number (212), of characters exceeds a predetermined number.
- dividing the input text message according to the inserted connection information; and
- In step (222), transmitting divided text messages.

wherein for a first divided text message among the divided text messages, the said connection SMS header is inserted into only an end portion of the first divided text message.

Quick, Jr. teaches that at the beginning of a message is a flag octet (802) informing that data is following the designated flag, which reads on claimed "divided text message connected in rear of the connection information". A second octet flag (810) is inserted at the end to inform that data is placed in between each of the respected flags.

Although, in contrast with distinctly comparable differences, Kim and Quick, Jr. are considered to constitute to the state of the claimed invention, neither represents the Applicants premise wherein connection information is inserted into a end portion, the end portion being an end to be connected to the next divided text message of the first divided text message.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

a.) U.S. Patent Number 6,208,859:      Service Preemption for Mobile Terminals in a Mobile Satellite Communication System

b.) U.S. Patent Number 6,185,208 B1- Method and Apparatus for Fragmenting Messages for a Wireless Network Using Group Sharing of Reference Number

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
